Direct and Indirect Objects Worksheet

A direct object is a noun or pronoun that receives the action of a “transitive verb” in an active sentence or shows the result of the action. It answers the question “What?” or “Whom?” after an action verb.

An indirect object tells to whom or for whom the action of the verb is done and who is receiving the direct object.

Directions: COMPLETE THE FOLLOWING:

- Underline the subject once and the verb twice (don't forget to underline helping verbs if the tense has been altered).
- Circle all direct objects.
- Put a square around all indirect objects.

1. Alex baked the class pumpkin bread.
2. I will make them a birdhouse by the end of the year.
3. My dog brought Dad his slippers.
4. I find school elections helpful.
5. In the middle of the pile of papers was Mr. Jones's golden fountain pen.
6. Lisa and Jim made Mrs. O'Brien a pie from the strawberries in the garden.
7. Some critical people consider fine art boring to think about.
8. Janet ran the 100-meter dash very fast for a beginner.
9. We called Susan an ambulance after she fell from the tree.
10. Aren't you going to school during the teachers' strike?
